

Minister Announces Funding for Irish Organisations in Britain

Press Release

The Minister for Foreign Affairs, Mr Micheál Martin, T.D., has announced that grants totalling £7,643,084 are being provided to over 135 organisations in Britain in 2009 under the Emigrant Support Programme.

Speaking at an Irish community reception at the Embassy of Ireland in London, the Minister said:

“I am pleased to announce that Government funding this year to the Irish community in Britain has been maintained at a very significant level. In 2009, we have approved a total of £7.64million to over 135 organisations throughout Britain. This brings Irish Government support for our community in Britain over the past six years to some £40million. The fact that we made this level of funding available in 2009 in the context of an extremely difficult budgetary situation is a clear indication of the Government’s ongoing firm and enduring commitment to the Irish in Britain.”.

Minister Martin pointed out that:

“The vast majority of this funding in 2009, as in previous years, has been directed at the most vulnerable members of the Irish community, particularly the elderly. While the funding provided over recent years has had a very positive impact on the ground, I am determined to ensure that those Irish in Britain who continue to live with significant levels of poverty, isolation, loneliness and addiction remain the focus of our work”.

While in London, the Minister also addressed the Cooperation Ireland London dinner.

Note for editors

Since 1984, the Government has given financial support to voluntary agencies providing advice and welfare services to vulnerable Irish emigrants in Britain. Over €57 million has been allocated to Irish community groups since then, with over €50.5 million being provided over the past six years.

The main focus of the funding remains on frontline welfare service providers that support the elderly, the homeless and people affected by illness or substance abuse problems, as well as services for the Traveller community. However, the eligibility criteria have been expanded to allow consideration of cultural, heritage, leisure and other activities which help to foster community contact and support.

The full list of organisations who have been awarded funding in 2009 is attached.
